MEMORANDUM FOR:                                                                    25X1
                    Director, Foreign Broadcast Information Service

FROM:                                                                              25X1
                    Director, Office of HUMINT Collection

SUBJECT:            National HUMINT Collection Plan                                25X1
                                                    )                              25X1

John,

1. Attached is the revised Collection Plan on [          ] containing agreed   25X1 assignments of collection responsibility. This revision follows an assessment of collection and reporting in response to the previous edition. The findings of this assessment relevant to open source intelligence are in Part V (Open Source Capabilities) of the new Plan.                                              25X1

2. Analysts generally agree FBIS collection capabilities regarding [          ] have improved significantly as a result of the addition of the [    ]   25X1 press agency [          ] to regular coverage. They believe, however, that FBIS   25X1 coverage of [        ] can be further improved by more timely processing of [   ]   25X1
City newspapers and by expansion of coverage to include selected newspapers from various regions of [        ]. Analysts find that [                      ]    25X1 which they now receive two weeks or more after date of publication, provide valuable intelligence; they are, however, concerned about loss of important perishable intelligence information as a consequence of the delivery lags.
Publication of translations from the [                   ] in the JPRS Latin      25X1 American Report generally are not timely enough to meet the needs of current intelligence analysts. Expansion of FBIS coverage to include timely processing of papers outside of [             ] would be useful since reporting   25X1 has been sparse on local political and economic developments that have national implications.                                                            25X1

3. As you know, National HUMINT Collection Plans, issued under the authority of Executive Order 12333, are comprehensive statements of HUMINT collection responsibility for designated US Government agencies. FBIS responsibilities are listed in Part II (National HUMINT Objectives and Responsible Collectors). Other matters relevant to HUMINT reporting or collection which may pertain to FBIS are noted in other parts of the Plan.
